

Globalization, Race, and the New Nationalism

FEATURING:

ROSE BREWER
University of Minnesota

OSCAR CHACON
Alianza Americas

BILL FLETCHER, JR.
Former President of TransAfrica Forum

JOSE LA LUZ
Veteran Trade Unionist/Social Justice Activist

VALENTINE MOGHADAM
Northeastern University

WILLIAM I. ROBINSON
University of California, Santa Barbara

JAMALA ROGERS
Author of Ferguson is America

MARY ROMERO
President-elect of the American Sociological Association

SASKIA SASSEN
Columbia University

BEVERLY SILVER
The Johns Hopkins University

R.L. STEPHENS
A. Philip Randolph Fellow at Jacobin

HILBOURNE WATSON
Professor Emeritus, Bucknell University

Howard University

Washington, DC

June 6 - 8, 2018

As W.E.B. DuBois noted, racism is the "Achilles heel" of American democracy. White nationalist and white supremacy ideologies and movements are old problems, but globalization is the current economic, political, and social context through which they are unfolding. This important conference will investigate the subjects of race and the new nationalism that are currently roiling our nation and the world.

For information about Howard University, email Rubin Patterson at rubin.patterson@howard.edu

For conference info and to register, visit the Global Studies website at <http://net4dem.org/mayglobal/>